SPOTLIGHT HOME

Antiques give eclectic vibe to home

Brandon Hancock has antiquing on his calendar on the second Friday of every month. It's a time for him and his mom to go to Scott Antique Markets to find vintage pieces for both of their homes.

Spotlights from an old theater. An old newspaper mailbox. Beer crates.

Hancock displays in his Marietta townhome these and other items from those shopping trips and regular visits to Paris on Ponce. It's an eclectic suburb showplace of industrial, unexpected and international finds.

"I never want it to look like I got everything from one place at one time," he said.

When he wanders through shops, Hancock likes to be pleasantly surprised by items that eventually will find a spot on his walls, bookshelves and elsewhere in his home.

"I wanted a curated collection of things purchased at different times at different places," he said. "I wanted each piece to be a memory of someplace I went or some time in my life."

SNAPSHOT

Residents: Brandon Hancock, a restaurateur, and his 9-year-old daughter, Addison, and dog, Capone.

Location: Marietta

Size: 2,472 square feet, four bedrooms, three-and-a-half baths

Year built/bought: 2002/2015

Architectural style: Traditional townhome

Builder: Ashton Woods

Favorite architectural elements: The built-in bookshelves he created. "I read a ton. That's what I do for fun, is read," he said.

Interior design styles: Industrial and eclectic

Favorite interior design elements: His kitchen table by Christopher Bailey of Industrial Chic Loft, which Hancock said can seat 12 to 15 people. "I did not want a formal dining room," he said. "It's one of a kind and fits the space perfectly."

Favorite outdoor features: The sofa on his back porch is from Rocky Mountain Ski & Board. "I knew I wanted something that would last, and I found a great teak sofa that fit the space perfectly," he said.

Resources: Antiques from Scott Antique Markets, Paris on Ponce, Varnish + Vine and Kudzu Antiques + Modern. Furniture from Rocky Mountain Ski & Board, Industrial Chic Loft by Christopher Bailey, Room & Board and Frontgate. Lighting from West Elm, Rustique Iron and The Big Chandelier. Art from Dangerous Color by JP McChesney and photography by Emily Hart. Paint by Sherwin-Williams.

Decor tip: Don't wait if an antique speaks to you. After failing to purchase an old safe 10 years ago, he buys an antique item as soon as he thinks it will fit in his house. "Although I am running out of space," he said. "That is my problem."

LEFT: Industrial Chic Loft turned an old cart into a dining table, giving it a custom top. The table can fit between 12 and 15 people around it, said homeowner Brandon Hancock. "It's one of a kind and fits the space perfectly." PHOTOS BY CHRISTOPHER OQUEENDO/WWWW.OPHOTOGRAPHY.COM

ABOVE: A teak sofa from Rocky Mountain Ski & Board offers a place to sit on the back porch. Brandon Hancock has decorated with items from Scott Antique Markets, including the vintage Double Cola sign.

BELOW RIGHT: The kitchen has an island with quartz countertops, tile backsplash and stainless steel KitchenAid appliances.

Brandon Hancock, a restaurateur, purchased the four-bedroom, three-and-a-half-bath townhome in 2015.

A favorite piece in the Marietta living room is the old Atlanta Journal-Constitution mailbox he found at Scott Antique Markets. "My dad remembers having one on the street in front of his house," he said. The walls are painted Crisp Khaki by Sherwin-Williams.
