Neelima Kanneganti and her family enjoy taking photos through their two-story bowed wall of windows in their new Johns Creek home as the weather and seasons change. "Every day is like a changing picture," she said. The curved wall was part of a plan by builder Ashton Woods in the new north Fulton County neighborhood. The architectural element gives the great room a spectacular setting during the day and evening, and the family particularly enjoys the moonlight, she said.

When the sun sets, Kanneganti said the view of the trees and sky through the 15 windows looks like an ever-changing painting.

"That's the highlight of this house," she said.

Residents: Neelima Kanneganti and Balaram Tidhi with their son, 12-year-old Saharsh Tidhi. Kanneganti is a dentist and Tidhi is a director at NCR Corp.

Location: Adair Manor in Johns Creek

Size: 4,300 square feet, five bedrooms, five baths

Year built and bought: 2018

Architectural style: Transitional

Builder: Ashton Woods

Favorite architectural elements: The dramatic two-story, floor-to-ceiling wall of glass from floor to ceiling in the family room.

Interior design style: Rustic glam

Key interior design elements: Mirrors, furniture with tufted details, and horse and elephant statues.

Favorite lighting: The industrial chandelier made of forged iron from RH's Camino collection in the family room because it reflects in the multiple window panes at night, she said.

Favorite outdoor feature: The back porch. Kanneganti said they enjoy seeing the moonlight under the trees in the evening.

Resources: Furniture from Rooms To Go, Pier1 Imports, CB2, Haverty's, Ashley Furniture and Macy's. Lighting from RH and Progressive Lighting. Art from Francis Marino and Christie Adelle. Curtains from Bellacor. Accessories from Pottery Barn, Pier1 Imports, RH, Crate and Barrel, Z Gallerie and Houzz. Rug from RH. Appliances from Jenn-Air and KitchenAid. Books from Neiman Marcus. Paint from Sherwin-Williams.

Decor tip: When using neutrals, add textured materials and pops of other tones, such as golden accessories. In the family room, for example, a stone fireplace wall helps break up the vast space, and another accent wall painted black helps accentuate the colors in an abstract print.

In the marble master bathroom, a Buddha statue from Pier1 Imports is positioned next to a freestanding tub as bamboo brings greenery into the space.

The sitting room's rustic glam style is seen in the oversized shell from Z Gallerie on a wood and iron coffee table, a mirrored console and neutral chairs with nailhead trim. An elephant statue from Pier1 Imports on a side table greets visitors, which Neelima Kanneganti said is similar to how horses and elephants are placed near the entrance of homes in India to greet guests.

The outdoor space is decorated with a bit of pattern, from the chevron rug, a jolt of greenery and the serenity of a Buddha statue from Pier1 Imports.

The transitional gray-and-white kitchen is highlighted with a waterfall Cambria quartz island in Torquay with four upholstered bar chairs with nailhead trim from Pier1 Imports.

The master bedroom is spacious enough to hold a couch, from Macy's, in front of the upholstered wing bed from Haverty's.
